

00:14:33 Kimberly Hayden: Hi From Stormy Virginia
00:15:04 Taralyn Lefebvre: Hello from Alberta, Canada.
00:19:02 Jessica Stillings: hear as a 5th grade teacher
00:19:07 Jessica Stillings: * here
00:19:14 Mayrizza Eugenio: 5th grade teacher here
00:19:17 Taralyn Lefebvre: Me, too.
00:19:38 Barbara Purcell: 5th grade math teacher
00:20:30 Tonya Gray: Fourth Grade Math teacher; however I have taught fifth grade math in the past.
00:21:10 Jayme Lorenz:
<https://www.nctm.org/Classroom-Resources/Generation-Genius/Activities/Introduction-to-Fractions-Using-a-Number-Line/>
00:21:19 Jayme Lorenz: These resources are member-only access 00:22:52 Jessica Stillings: How much does it cost to become a member?
00:23:36 Tanya Jimenez: 9th grade teacher. students struggle with fractions.
00:23:54 Brentley Bendewald: College teacher, the struggle continues.
00:24:10 Jayme Lorenz: There are different tiers, as well as an option for students.

00:24:35 Brentley Bendewald: College teacher, the struggle continues.
00:26:32 Tanya Jimenez: is this PowerPoint also download able to members only or may we get a copy?
00:27:52 Jayme Lorenz: We can include the presentation slides with the recording
00:29:10 Katelynd Crees: Is there a log in to use for the site that people can use or do you have to pay for a membership?
00:29:56 Brentley Bendewald: I love the use of vertical spaces and BTC!
00:30:02 Diann Christensen: Woohoo for BTC!
00:30:56 Jayme Lorenz: There's no log in, but you can see which video lessons are available to you with a membership

<https://www.nctm.org/generation-genius/>

You would also have access to more than 1000 other classroom resources

00:31:22 Lindsay Samelian: You have to pay for a membership, but it's totally worth it. The first two years of membership there's a discounted price.
00:32:03 Jennifer Rank: How do you group your students?
00:33:32 Brigid Ryan: Generation Genius offers a 30 day trial period. But looking at the NCTM pricing, it is more cost effective to paying for a Generation Genius membership.
00:34:11 Brentley Bendewald: If she is using BTC, she probably does random grouping.
00:36:11 Katelynd Crees: If no one has ever used Boddle it is fantastic! It is free and kids love it! Great online interactive game and supplemental resource 00:42:40 Jessica Stillings: Amazing presentation Melissa!
00:43:11 Debra Taylor: Great presentation!
00:43:19 Mayrizza Eugenio: best presentation of Fractions by far!!!
