

VIRTUAL WRITING BOOT CAMP

Registration link: <https://forms.gle/xULudJ1fqvqpTeEV6>

Purpose: To engage participants in an intense, one-week writing experience and provide with supports necessary to lead toward publication in MTLT.

Target Audience: Classroom teachers, district personnel, graduate students, university faculty – basically anyone with classroom-tested ideas for the mathematics classroom

What to expect: A mixture of information sessions, dedicated writing periods, and virtual check-ins – all aimed at supporting the writing process. Note that the camp will include “independent writing time.” During these times, participants will commit to spending a set amount of time during the given period. The time can be arranged at the convenience of the participant. Also, participants will have the option of working independently, connecting with a writing partner, or checking in with an accountability group.
